

Spouse contributions.

Share the benefits

Everything you need to know about sharing super.

Contributing to your spouse's super could have big benefits. For instance, if your spouse is a low income earner or doesn't work, you can earn a tax rebate of up to $540 a year for contributions you've made on their behalf. Of course, there's the long term benefit of building a valuable retirement nest egg, too.

Frequently asked questions.

Q. Can I use my employer contributions or salary sacrifice to make contributions into my spouse's account to be eligible for the tax rebate?

A. No. To be eligible for the tax rebate, spouse contributions can only be made from income that has already been taxed. Therefore, you cannot use employer contributions or salary sacrifice to make spouse contributions into your spouse's account.

Q. Can I roll over my account into my spouse's account?

A. No. Any amount you roll over from another fund must be transferred into an account in your own name. Likewise, your spouse can roll over money held in another fund in their name into their Hostplus account.

Q. Is there a limit on spouse contributions?

A. Yes, there is an annual limit of $100,000. This applies to all non-concessional (after-tax) contributions that are made to their super. For more information about non-concessional contribution caps, visit ato.gov.au. For spouses aged between 67 and 75, they need to have worked at least 40 hours within 30 consecutive days in the financial year to have a contribution made on their behalf. There is, however, a limit on the tax rebate you may be eligible to receive. You may wish to speak to a licensed financial adviser to decide an appropriate level of spouse contributions.

Q. Are spouse contributions taxed?

A. No, unless your spouse contributions exceed the non-concessional contributions cap then the contributions will be taxed at the top marginal rate, which is currently 45% (plus Medicare levy of 2%). For more information about spouse contributions and tax, visit the Australian Taxation Office at www.ato.gov.au/super or call their super helpline on 13 10 20.

Are you eligible?

You can make contributions for your spouse as long as you are living together and you are both Australian residents. A spouse is:

- a person who is legally married to you
- a person who lives with you on a genuine domestic basis in a relationship as a couple, or
- a person (whether the same sex or different sex) with whom you are in a relationship that is registered under law of a State or Territory.

Government regulations don't allow spouse contributions if you are your spouse's employer or a couple living apart. If you stop living with your spouse, you're not eligible to continue making spouse contributions.

The receiving spouse must be under 75 years of age and work at least 40 hours in 30 consecutive days during the financial year in which the spouse contribution is made. If under 67, they do not need to work.

Each time you make a spouse contribution, you must confirm that you and your partner are still living together and you still meet eligibility criteria.

Make spouse contributions.

As a Hostplus member it's easy to make and receive spouse contributions.

If your spouse is already a Hostplus member, you can start making contributions to their account right away, by using the attached contribution slip.

If they're not already a Hostplus member, but would like to be, they can open a Hostplus Personal Super Plan account. To receive an application just call 1300 467 875 and request a Hostplus Personal Super Plan Product Disclosure Statement. Or simply join online at hostplus.com.au/join

When you can make contributions.

Spouse contributions can be made any time, as long as your spouse is eligible. See the Are you eligible? section in this brochure for details.

If your spouse is eligible, simply send us a cheque together with a completed contribution slip attached. Or simply make a BPAY® payment, at Member Online at hostplus.com.au

Adding up your rebate.

For every dollar of spouse contributions, you can claim 18% of the contribution as a tax rebate – up to a maximum rebate of $540 a year (based on a $3,000 contribution) if the receiving spouse's total assessable income (plus reportable fringe benefits amounts and reportable employee super contributions, if any) is less than $40,000 in a financial year.

Tax offsets will not be available if the receiving spouse has exceeded their non-concessional contributions cap in the relevant financial year or they have a total superannuation balance* equal to or exceeding the transfer balance cap as at 30 June before the start of the financial year in which the contribution was made.

*Your total superannuation balance is the total value of your accumulation and retirement phase interests (including rollover amounts not yet included in those interests) across all of your superannuation accounts, reduced by the sum of any structured settlement contributions. For more information about spouse contributions and tax, visit the Australian Taxation Office at www.ato.gov.au/super or call their super helpline on 13 10 20.

For example

For example, Mia contributes $3,000 on behalf of her spouse David who earns $38,000 per year.

The tax offset is calculated as 18% of the lesser of:

- $3,000 less every dollar over $37,000 that David earns ($3,000 - $1,000); or,
- The value of the spouse contribution ($3,000).
- In this example, $2,000 is the lesser figure and so, Mia is entitled to a $360 tax offset ($2,000 X 18%).

All spouse contributions are preserved.

Government regulations stipulate that spouse contributions must be kept in a superannuation fund until the relevant age below.

- Age 65 for spouses who have never worked in Australia – although a benefit can be paid due to death, financial hardship or compassionate grounds if legislative guidelines are met.
- Preservation age for spouses who have worked at least 10 hours in any given week in their life in Australia – 'preservation age' is a scale that determines when you can receive your retirement benefit. Preservation age is 55 for people born before 1 July 1960, increasing to 60 for people born from 1 July 1964.

A benefit may also be released under certain conditions including retirement, total and permanent incapacity, death, financial hardship or compassionate grounds.
