

ADDITIONAL CONTRIBUTIONS.

July 2022

Make sure you have enough super.

For many people, super contributions from their employer won't be enough for the lifestyle they would like in retirement. To make sure you have the lifestyle you want, start adding to your super now. You don't have to make large contributions, just what you can. Because even a few extra dollars today can make a big difference to what you'll enjoy tomorrow.

Start early for bigger benefits.

Additional contributions can make a huge difference to your final super payout. Starting early could greatly build your balance over time.

The benefits of getting in early

If you start adding $25 a week to your super at	Age 20	Age 30	Age 40
Total amount added	$58,500	$45,500	$32,500
Extra benefit at retirement	$521,911	$232,685	$98,717

Three ways to add to your super.

Depending on your marginal tax rate, one effective way you could add to your super is to check if your employer allows you to make a contribution from your salary before it is taxed (salary sacrifice).

In some circumstances, it might be more effective to make after-tax personal contributions, known as 'non-concessional' contributions. If your employer doesn't allow you to salary sacrifice, you may make an after-tax personal contribution and claim a tax deduction. If you have reached the concessional contribution cap in the relevant financial year, you may decide to make an after-tax personal contribution.

Comparing salary sacrifice and personal contributions

	Salary sacrifice	Personal contributions
Who makes the contribution?	Your employer makes the contribution on your behalf from your salary before it is taxed.	You make the contribution from your after-tax salary.
How is the contribution made?	Your employer deducts the amount from your before-tax salary and deposits it into your super fund.	You can choose to make contributions by direct debit, BPAY® or arrange payroll deductions.
What's the benefit?	Your contribution is taxed at 15%. Salary sacrifice also lowers your taxable income, so you might end up paying less tax. Note that salary sacrifice will also reduce your take-home pay.	If you're eligible, making a personal contribution could earn a co-contribution from the government.

Making salary sacrifice contributions.

With salary sacrifice, you'll pay 15% tax on your contribution when it's deposited into your super because it comes from your before-tax salary. This is instead of you paying tax based on your marginal tax rate, which could be up to 45% plus Medicare Levy.

Salary sacrifice also lowers your taxable income, so you might end up paying less income tax. The table below shows how salary sacrifice can increase your super and decrease your tax.

Lowering your taxable income

Salary package	With NO salary sacrifice	With $80 a week salary sacrifice
Total package (inclusive of super)	$80,000	$80,000
10.5% super contributions	$8,400	$8,400
Salary before sacrifice	$71,600	$71,600
Salary sacrifice to super	$0	$4,160
Taxable income	$71,600	$67,440 ¹
Income tax (including Medicare levy)	$15,169	$13,734 ²
Take-home pay	$56,431	$53,706³
Total super contributions	$8,400	$12,560
Super contributions tax	$1,260	$1,884
Net super contributions	$7,140	$10,676
Total tax paid	$16,429	$15,618
Total net salary and net super contributions	$63,571	$64,382⁴

The table above is calculated using 2021-2022 individual income tax rates which apply from 1 July 2021. Superannuation Guarantee (SG) contribution requirements 2022-2023. SG Contributions are based on pre-salary sacrifice income level.

- 1 After salary sacrifice, income tax is paid on only $67,440.
- 2 So income tax is $1,435 less.
- 3 Take-home pay is $2,725 less.
- 4 But the combined value of pay and super contributions increases by $811.

Before-tax contribution limits.

Concessional contributions are before-tax contributions such as:

- superannuation guarantee (compulsory super contributions from your employer),
- salary sacrifice contributions, and
- deductible contributions made

There are limits on how much you can contribute to super to benefit from concessional tax rates. This limit is called the concessional contribution cap, which is $27,500 per financial year per person.

Although you may contribute over this amount to Hostplus, you may incur a tax rate of 45% plus Medicare Levy, plus an interest charge to recognise that this is collected later than normal income tax.

The concessional contribution cap for the 2022-2023 financial year is $27,500. If you don't use all of your annual concessional contributions cap of $27,500, you can carry forward the unused portion for up to 5 years, provided your Total Super Balance¹ is less than $500,000 at the end of 30 June in the previous year.

Making after-tax personal contributions.

With after-tax personal contributions your contribution isn't taxed when it's deposited into your super. That's because it's already been taxed at your marginal tax rate. But if you're eligible for government super co-contribution, making a personal contribution could earn you up to $500 depending on your age, income, Total Super Balance¹ and how much you contribute.

How government super co-contribution works.

Your maximum super co-contribution depends on your income and your Total Super Balance.¹ For the 2022-2023 financial year, for every dollar of personal or after-tax contributions you make, the government will add up to 50 cents to your super. If your income is equal to or less than the lower income threshold ($42,016), you could receive a co-contribution of up to the $500 if eligible.

For every dollar that you earn above the lower income threshold, your maximum entitlement is reduced by 3.333 cents. You are not eligible for a super co-contribution if your income is at or above the higher income threshold of $57,016.

You must have a Total Super Balance¹ of less than the general transfer balance cap of $1.7 million for the 2022-2023 financial year.

Visit hostplus.com.au/govco-contribution for more information on how you could benefit from co-contributions.

After-tax contribution limits.

Non-concessional contributions are after-tax contributions such as personal contributions.

You may make personal (after-tax) contributions to an annual limit of the $110,000 cap.

To be eligible to make non-concessional contributions you must have a Total Super Balance¹ of less than $1.7 million as at 30 June of the previous financial year.

From 1 July 2022, if you are under the age of 75 you may be able to access a bring forward period for your non-concessional contributions cap of up to three times the annual cap in a single year, depending on your salary and Total Super Balance¹ as outlined below:

Your Total Super Balance:¹ You may bring forward contributions to a maximum of:

- Less than $1.48 million: $330,000
- Above $1.48 million but less than $1.59 million: $220,000
- Above $1.59 million but less than $1.7 million: $110,000
- Above 1.7 million you cannot make non-concessional contributions.

If your non-concessional contributions exceed your non-concessional contributions cap for that year, or if at 30 June of the previous year your Total Super Balance¹ equals or exceeds the general transfer balance cap of $1.7 million, you will not be able to make additional contributions to your super.

1. Your Total Super Balance is the total value of your accumulation and retirement phase interests (including rollover amounts not yet included in those interests) across all of your superannuation accounts, reduced by the sum of any structured settlement contributions.

Claiming a tax deduction for personal contributions.

If you are between 18 and 75 years old,* self-employed, or your employer does not offer salary sacrifice arrangements or you simply choose to organise your own contributions to super, you can still contribute extra to super and enjoy concessional tax benefits by making a personal contribution from your after-tax salary and claiming a tax deduction. You can reduce your taxable income and the amount of income tax you pay by converting non-concessional personal contributions into concessional contributions. However, you will have to be mindful not to exceed your contribution limits because you may pay extra tax.

If you claim a tax deduction for personal contributions made in a financial year, you may not be eligible for a Government co-contribution.

How to make additional contributions.

Salary sacrifice contributions.

To arrange salary sacrifice payments, you need to speak to your employer. Some employers don't offer salary sacrifice or they might not be able to let you salary sacrifice if it brings your salary under the minimum prescribed amount under an award.

For more information, download our salary sacrifice guide from hostplus.com.au/forms-and-brochures or call 1300 467 875 for a copy.

Personal contributions.

The easiest way to make personal contributions is to complete the direct debit form attached and return it to Hostplus. You can also make payments through BPAY or arrange payroll deductions.

How to claim tax deduction for personal contributions.

You must complete and send to Hostplus the ATO form Notice of intent to claim or vary a deduction for personal super contributions (NAT 71121) available from the ATO website. You must give the ATO form to Hostplus at the earliest of either before you lodge your income tax return for the financial year in which you made the personal contribution, or at the end of the financial year following the year in which you made the personal contribution. Hostplus is required to acknowledge your request before you are able to claim a tax deduction.

Before you decide which option is best for your personal circumstances, you might want to speak to a Hostplus financial planner licensed by Industry Funds Services Ltd (IFS).

Your first conversation with a Hostplus planner is included in your membership. Talk to us on 1300 467 875 or visit hostplus.com.au to make an appointment today.

Remember to provide your Tax File Number. We need your Tax File Number (TFN) before we can accept personal contributions from you. If you don't supply us with your TFN, all personal contributions will be returned to you.

Also, without your TFN recorded, your superannuation guarantee contributions from your employer and your salary sacrifice contributions will be taxed at 45% (plus Medicare Levy), instead of just 15%.

To provide us with your TFN, simply head to hostplus.com.au and submit it online or call 1300 467 875.

* Note: From 2022-23 onwards if you are aged less than 75 years you do not need to meet work test or work test exemption for your fund to accept a non-mandated contributions. Your fund can also accept a contribution if they determine it relates to a period when you were eligible. For example, government co-contribution can always be accepted because they relate to a period when member contributions could be made.
